(4) A court convicting a person may, when passing sentence, indicate that it will hold an enquiry contemplated in subsection (3) at a later stage, if it is satisfied that such enquiry will unreasonably delay the proceedings in sentencing the convicted person.

(5) No application referred to in subsection (3) shall be made without the written authority of the Prosecutor-General.

(6) A court before which proceedings under this section are pending may, in order to make a declaration of forfeiture under subsection (3) -

(b) The court shall, having regard to the representations made to it under paragraph (a), enquire into and, subject to the provisions of paragraph (c), determine any such interest.

(i) that he or she acquired the interest in that property in good faith and for consideration, whether in cash or otherwise; and

(ii) that the circumstances under which he or she acquired the interest in that property were not of such a nature that he or she could reasonably have been expected to have suspected that it was or formed part of the proceeds of a criminal activity.

Property forfeited to the State under subsection (3) shall be dealt with in accordance with the directions of the court which made the declaration of forfeiture.

Any person aggrieved by a determination made by the court under subsection (7)(b), may appeal against such determination as if it were a conviction by the court making such determination, and that appeal may be heard, either separately or jointly, with an appeal against the conviction as a result of which the declaration of forfeiture was made under subsection (5), or against a sentence imposed as a result of such conviction.

Any person who, having been duly served with an order under paragraph (b) or (c) of subsection (1), fails to comply with any provision of that order, shall be guilty of an offence.

To the extent that the provisions of subsection (1) authorize the interference with a person’s fundamental right to privacy by conducting a search under those provisions, such interference shall be authorized only on the grounds of the prevention of crime and the protection of the rights of others as contemplated in Article 13(1) of the Namibian Constitution.
